

TWO IOWA OFFICERS KILLED BY AUTO THIEF TODAY

WOMAN KILLED BY FALLING ON FORK HANDLE

Mrs. Ella Zimmerman, Living Near Compton Is Victim

Mrs. Ella Zimmerman, wife of William Zimmerman, farmer, residing near Earlville in LaSalle county, passed away at the Pool hospital in Compton at 11:35 last night, her tragic death resulting from an accident sustained Monday afternoon while assisting her husband in loading hay at their farm home. The young woman was driving the team hitched to the hay rack and was standing on the ladder at the front of the rack, when the team bolted suddenly, becoming frightened at a passing train.

Her husband, who was on the rack assisting in loading the hay, managed to stop the team before they ran away, but his wife was thrown from the ladder and fell on the handle of a three-tined hay fork, which penetrated into her body about eight inches.

She was taken to her home at one, after she had extricated the handle of the fork herself, and did not appear to be suffering any intense pain. Her husband summoned Dr. Rayson of Earlville, who arrived within a short time and advised her removal to a hospital. She was immediately taken to the Pool hospital at Compton. An examination by the physicians disclosed a slight flesh wound near the rectum where the handle of the fork entered the body.

Grew Weaker Rapidly. Last evening about 5:30 her condition changed and she grew rapidly worse. About 10:30 it was decided to perform an operation but this was despaired of as she continued to show marked weakness and death relieved her suffering shortly before midnight.

In the absence of Coroner F. M. Banker, Justice Grover V. Gehant conducted an inquest over the remains at the George Zimmerman farm home, four miles southeast of Compton this morning at 10 o'clock. The young husband related the details of the accident and the two physicians who attended her testified. The jury returned a verdict finding that death was due to strangulation of the bowels, contributed to the accidental fall on the pitchfork handle.

Ella Bauer was born near LaMoille in Bureau county, September 5, 1906 and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bauer, who survive her; with three sisters, three brothers and her husband, as follows: Misses Hilda, Pearl and Fern at home; Harvey at home; Gus of near Sublette and Elmer of LaMoille. Funeral services will be conducted Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence of George Zimmerman in Brookline township and at 2:30 from the Emanuel Lutheran church. Rev. L. J. Grosshans will officiate and interment will be in Restland cemetery at Mendota.

Chicago Suburbs In Path Of Hard Storm

Chicago, June 26.—(UP)—Suburb west of Chicago suffered damage in excess of $200,000 from a wind and rain storm that swept down suddenly during the night interrupting telephone communication and electric power service, damaging buildings and ripping up young trees and shrubs.

Low-lying sidewalks were under ten inches of water during the early morning hours.

The storm lost some of its force as it moved eastward to Chicago, but put 2,000 street lights out of commission, and forced police stations to work by candle light. At the municipal airport, where three hangars were swept by fire yesterday, the radio apparatus was put out of service for a short time.

"Southern Cross" Winging Way Toward New York

CHICAGO ENDURANCE PLANE BEGINNING TO SHOW EFFECT OF 350 HOURS STEADY GOING

Oil Tank Begins Leaking As Plane Nears St. Louis Record

Chicago, June 26.—(AP)—The four flying Hunter boys of Sparta, Ill., staked virtually all their money on an airplane endurance flight which, if it is continued, will surpass the record at 6:01 o'clock next Sunday morning. At 3:40 A. M. today the plane had been in the air 347 hours.

Walter, the eldest, said they had pooled their funds, expecting to realize at least $200,000 if the flight was successful.

The smooth sailing that had marked the flight for two grueling weeks turned rough last evening when a leaky gasoline tank under the left wing developed. The circumstance necessitated night refueling, with its hazards.

The fliers, in notes dropped to the field, said efforts were being made to repair the tank, and spoke of the added caution needed in handling the plane due to the change of balance.

The Hunters are confident of ample checks from the makers of the various mechanical devices being used. They hope to write stories of the effort, and they anticipate financial assistance from the milk and other food concerns and makers of gasoline and oils used. Theatrical engagements will be taboo, Walter added.

Hope for 500 Hours. Forest O'Brien and Dale Jackson of St. Louis, holders of the record, kept their plane aloft 420 hours, 21 minutes. The Hunters hope to keep their single-motored ship drifting over Sky Harbor, a suburban airport, 500 or more hours.

While the two younger Hunters, John and Kenneth, still in their 20's pilot the endurance plane, Walter and Albert, fly the refueling ship. A fifth Hunter, Irene, hurried from her school teaching in southern Illinois to supervise the cuisine department. She sees that the "finest brothers in the world" have what they want to eat, and that, piping hot or icy cold, as they desire.

A sixth Hunter, mother of the quintet, has followed the flight's progress at her farm near Sparta. She will be at Sky Harbor "from Saturday on," observed Irene.

Failure? Well, the Hunters will go back to the mines, to the little farm, to the airmail, to restore family funds and pay off debts they incurred. John and Kenneth are mail pilots. Walter has an interest in a coal mine near Sparta.

Inspiration to the Hunters because he was forced down near their place on a dark night. He spent the night at the Hunter home. Lindbergh then was flying the Chicago-St. Louis airmail.

Blimp Damaged In Landing Heavily

Rantoul, Ill., June 26.—(UP)—An army blimp, which sustained damage to parts of its structure when it landed heavily on Chanute Field here Monday, was shipped back by train to its home port at Scott Field, Belleville today.

The blimp, according to Chanute Field officers, flew here from Chicago Monday.

Enroute it is said to have encountered strong headwinds causing it to lose considerable gas and forced it to make a heavy landing. Though parts of the blimp's structure was damaged no one was injured.

The ship was sent to Scott Field, according to Chanute Field officials, because there are no facilities here for repairing damages to blimps.

SLAIN REPORTER LOST BIG PROFIT IN MARKET SLUMP

Detectives Delving Into Financial Deals Of Jake Lingle

Chicago, June 26.—(UP)—Disastrous stock market deals of Alfred J. Lingle, murdered Chicago Tribune reporter, and William F. Russell, his former Police Commissioner friend, furnished State's Attorney's detectives today in their investigation of the reporter's gang murder.

Lingle, who received $65 a week as a police reporter, and Russell, on a $100,000 annual salary had more than $100,000 in paper profits on brokers' books at one time on an initial outlay of $10,000, the former police official told Pat Roche, chief investigator for the State's Attorney. The stock market depression last October wiped out the account, Russell said. The former official said no money was drawn from the account by either of them.

Taking cognizance of the evidence that filtered out of the "clearing house" of the Lingle murder investigation yesterday, Swanson issued a statement last night summarizing his investigation of the reporter's past and financial dealings that have been the subject of many rumors since he was slain almost three weeks ago.

Swanson's Statement. "We have been investigating the transactions of Al Lingle on the stock market," the statement said, "and are satisfied from information furnished us by former Commissioner of Police Russell and other sources that Lingle ran an account of a few thousand dollars into paper profits amounting to well over $100,000 at the time when the peak was reached."

"It appears from our investigation that Lingle traded rather extensively in stocks and was able to do this because of the paper profits which accumulated to his credit during the time the market was rising."

The State's Attorney did not discuss the joint account of Lingle and Russell in the statement. Russell was questioned twice about the stock transactions by Roche, it was learned before the State's Attorney's statement was made. Earlier in the investigation William N. Kline, president of the Lake Shore Trust & Savings Bank, disclosed that Lingle's bank account at the time of his murder was either $2,400 or $2,700. Kline also said that the reporter made between six and eight deposits a month ranging from $500 to $800 in currency, exclusive of checks.

BATTLES HEAD WINDS AND FOG IN DAY'S JUMP

Fliers Are Expected To Reach Metropolis Early This Eve

Gloucester, Mass., June 26.—(UP)—The Southern Cross, at 1:10 P. M., E. S. T., today reported its position as 160 miles, 70 degrees true, east northeast of Cape Ann, Massachusetts, the Coast Guard radio station here announced. It was estimated that at that hour the Southern Cross was approximately due east of Portland, Me.

By MORRIS DE HAEN TRACY. United Press Staff Correspondent. New York, June 26.—(UP)—Capt. Charles E. Kingsford-Smith and his three companions, flying from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, to New York, to complete their trans-Atlantic voyage, were believed to have passed the half-way mark some time between 11 A. M. and 12 M., E. S. T. today.

Headwinds and fog had cut down their speed until for more than three hours they had averaged only about 60 miles an hour. But as they approached Halifax, near the half-way mark, conditions grew better. Headwinds were less violent. They avoided some of the fog by flying inland and they raised their average speed to 65 miles.

Assuming that they can make increasingly better time for the remainder of the trip they should reach Roosevelt Field, New York, some time after 5 P. M. today. It seemed hardly probable that they could do better than that, although it might prove possible.

BY J. T. MEANEY

United Press Correspondent. Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, June 26.—(UP)—Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith and his three companions started their flight for New York at 3:05 A. M. EST. today.

Their plane, the Southern Cross, stained by the wind and weather of the two oceans over which it has flown, expected to land in New York this afternoon if all goes well. By so doing it will have completed the flight that started from Ireland and was interrupted here yesterday by shortages of fuel.

The four fliers were up before day-break and had breakfast at their hotel, and then, escorted by several Harbor Grace residents, they went to the airport for a final inspection and warming up of their plane before taking off.

The Southern Cross—the same old ship with the same three motors that made aviation history when it crossed the Pacific in 1928—was freshly fueled, inspected, and pronounced in perfect condition during its pause here.

Men on High Spirits. When the plane was found in perfect order, Capt. Kingsford-Smith climbed aboard, followed by his companions. The four were in high spirits as they acknowledged the cheers of the watchers.

The Australian thanked the people here for their interest in his flight and their cooperation, and congratulated them on the excellent landing field at Harbor Grace. He said it could be developed into a first-class airport at very little additional expense.

The Southern Cross lumbered down the runway easily and made an excellent take-off. The weather was fine and warm, with a moderately light west wind blowing.

When the plane left the ground, it headed due west, and disappeared over the Newfoundland hills, flying low.

The aviator's menu for the second stage of their flight from Dublin consisted of two thermos bottles of cocoa, two of tea, a dozen boiled eggs, and a dozen bread, butter, and caplin sandwiches. The caplin sandwiches were a new item for the trans-Atlantic fliers and they said they were delicious. Capt. Saul said it was worth flying the Atlantic ocean just to eat a meal of caplin.

N. Y. PLANS WELCOME

New York, June 26.—(UP)—New York is ready to welcome Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith and his companions when they land their trans-Atlantic monoplane, Southern Cross, at Roosevelt Field from Harbor Grace, N. I.

HOOVER'S VETO MESSAGE ON WORLD WAR PENSION MEASURE IS SENT TO CONGRESS TODAY

MEMORY OF PRES. JAMES BUCHANAN HONORED TODAY

Monument To "Bachelor" President Of United States Unveiled

BULLETIN BY PAUL R. MALLON United Press Staff Correspondent. Washington, June 26.—(UP)—The House voted today to sustain President Hoover's veto of the World War veterans compensation bill, thereby paving the way for a substitute measure which would meet with the President's approval. The veto was sustained shortly after Mr. Hoover's veto message was read in the House.

The vote was 182 in favor of overriding to 188 against. Washington, June 26.—(UP)—President Hoover and many government and diplomatic officials today honored the memory of James Buchanan by unveiling a statue to the 15th President at Meridian Hill Park here.

The President delivered a eulogy while Mrs. Francis H. Denny, a cousin of the bachelor President Buchanan, was to pull the cord unveiling the monument.

Buchanan, popularly known as the first of the "log cabin" Presidents, was born in Franklin County, Pa., in 1791.

The President recalled Buchanan's long career as Senator, Secretary of State and diplomat. In the latter capacity, the President pointed out, he had served as Ambassador to Russia, negotiating the first commercial treaty with that country, and as Ambassador to London.

The President said that "the most appealing side" of Buchanan's character is revealed in the fact that though "a bachelor, and engrossed in public and private business, he found time to rear and educate an orphaned niece in a manner that would have done credit to any father."

He recalled "the wise and affectionate letters" to the niece, Harriette Lane, and pointed out that she was responsible for the statue dedicated today, as she had left provision for it in her will.

Passage Of Satisfactory Bill During Day Expected

BY PAUL R. MALLON United Press Staff Correspondent. Washington, June 26.—(UP)—President Hoover vetoed the liberalized World War veterans compensation bill today, and sent it back to Congress with a vigorous message restating the objections he has raised previously.

House leaders were to take up the measure today after the message was read, confident the veto would be sustained, thus killing the bill in this form. The veto upheld, House leaders planned to take up immediately a modified measure which meets the President's objections, and attempt to pass it before night and send it to the Senate.

Before the message was received House Republican leaders proposed a resolution waiving all rules of the House for the remainder of the session in order to pass speedily a compromise measure. Democratic Floor Leader Garner protested vigorously at this rule.

President's Message. "I am returning herewith House bill 10381 without approval. "One of the most repugnant tasks which can fall to this office is to disapprove of measures intended to benefit our sick or disabled men who have served our country in war. Perhaps as much as any other person I have full realization of the task, the hardships and dangers to which the nation ordered its sons.

"In sentiment and in sympathy I should desire no greater satisfaction than to support just measures which are proposed for their benefit. But I want a square deal between veterans—not unjust discriminations between special groups and I do not want wasteful or unnecessary expenditures."

"The country already generously provides for the 280,000 men whose health or earning power is shown to have been impaired by their service in the war and for 91,000 dependents of the men who suffered or died. That is and should be a first charge upon the nation."

Radical Departure. "This measure except for a small part adds nothing to aid of veterans wounded or disabled in the war. It is a radical departure from our full commitment to provide compensation to men for war disability into the field of pension to men who have incurred disabilities as the incident of civil life since the war and having no valid relation to their military service. It provides that in respect to veterans who between the years 1925 and 1930 shall have become afflicted with any one of a extensive category of diseases and thus disabled, therein establish a 'presumption' that these diseases originated from their service and that they should be 'compensated' or pensioned upon the basis of men who suffered as the result of actual military service."

The fugitive was of medium build and wore a grey suit, and had black, bushy eyebrows, Bailey said.

The robber made his escape in a 1923 model Ford coupe bearing Illinois number 92-3307.

Experienced Criminal. The nature of the double murder indicated the shooting was by an experienced criminal, possibly a member of a car-stealing ring. This belief was supported by William Bailey, who said another car containing two men was directly behind the stolen Buick sedan when it was halted at the edge of town.

The second car sped rapidly away, Bailey recalled.

Search for the robber was concentrated east of Washington in the belief he would head for Chicago.

A report came from Columbus Junction that a man answering the description of the killer and driving a similar automobile stopped there for gasoline this morning and after refueling drove rapidly away without paying.

Radio stations throughout the state and in Illinois were broadcasting a description of the killer. Police and county officers in all of eastern Iowa and Illinois were notified of the slaying.

STOLE CAR IN OTTUMWA

Ottumwa, Ia., June 26.—(UP)—The automobile thief who shot and killed two Washington, Iowa, peace officers early today started his night of crime by stealing a Buick sedan belonging to C. C. Roderick here.

Roderick, manager of the Ottumwa Gas Company, had left his car in his garage and a patrolman passing the residence at 1:50 A. M. noticed that the doors were open and the car gone.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 26.—(AP)—Harry C. Stutz, widely known automobile designer and manufacturer, died here today from complications which followed an operation for appendicitis. He was 53 years old.

Stutz came to Indianapolis Monday afternoon from Orlando Fla., where he had been making his home for the last five years, and entered a hospital. After an operation he appeared to be doing well until infection set in and caused his death.

THINK SLAYER IS TRYING TO REACH CHICAGO

Washington, Ia., Officials Victims of Dual Killing This Morn

BULLETIN Sheriff Ward T. Miller this morning received a description of the man who murdered two Washington, Ia., officers and escaped in a stolen Ford car, and asked that the local officers watch the Lincoln Highway. Sheriff Miller posted guards at the bridge and entrance to the city to apprehend the killer if he comes this way.

Washington, Iowa, June 26.—(UP)—Sheriff Fred Sweet and Night Marshal Martin Bailey were murdered today by an automobile robber whom they had arrested.

The two officers were shot as they started to search the suspect in the Sheriff's office. The killer then fled from the building and escaped in an automobile. He was believed to have been slightly wounded. A posse was quickly organized to give chase.

William Bailey, brother of the slain Marshal, and himself a night watchman, saw the fleeing murderer and emptied his revolver at him. The gunman staggered but recovered and continued to run, Bailey said.

Notified of the original auto theft by Ottumwa, Ia., officials Sweet and Bailey were waiting for the thief at the edge of town.

Submitted to Arrest. He submitted quietly to arrest but after he had been taken to the Sheriff's office suddenly drew his gun and began shooting.

Meanwhile William Bailey, at the Sheriff's request, had left the office to guard the stolen automobile from which the keys had been removed. Hearing the shots Bailey started again for the office just in time to see the gunman, whom he described as about 35 years old, running from the office. The watchman followed, firing as he ran, but soon lost trace of the murderer.

Description of the killer was broadcast throughout southwestern Iowa by telephone. County officials and posses of volunteer citizens began patrolling the roads.

The fugitive was of medium build and wore a grey suit, and had black, bushy eyebrows, Bailey said.

LABOR-OWNED BANK CLOSED IN CINCINNATI

Withdrawal Of Million In Deposits Cause Of Its Closing

Cincinnati, O., June 26.—(AP)—The Brotherhood of Railway Clerks National Bank, the majority of whose stock is owned by 120,000 members of the Brotherhood of Railway & Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers & Station Employees, was closed today after $1,000,000 in deposits had been withdrawn following the resignation of two bank officials three days ago.
Rumors of difficulties were reported at the bank shortly after the Cosmopolitan Bank & Trust Company closed sixteen days ago. The latter institution was closed as a result of the $1,000,000 speculation of A. W. Shafer, discharged District Manager of the Henry L. Doherty Company.
United States District Attorney Havel E. Mau said that an account Shafer carried in the Brotherhood bank had been under investigation for two weeks. Shafer was found to be short $623,000 in his accounts with the Cosmopolitan bank, but federal bank examiners would not disclose the size of his account with the Brotherhood bank. Mau said Shafer's collateral with the Brotherhood bank consisted of Cities Service stock certificates which bore forged endorsements.
Assets were placed in the hands of the Comptroller of the Currency of the United States for liquidation.
Last Monday, after issuing a statement that the bank was in sound condition, directors said that two officers had resigned. Lyman Norris was succeeded by Michael G. Heinz as Vice-President, and Harry Rosenblum resigned as Assistant Cashier. He was succeeded by William L. Luebke.
Nelson Schwab, Hamilton county prosecutor, later said loans approximating $235,000 and secured by alleged forged securities had been made to Shafer by the Brotherhood bank. The prosecutor said his investigation led him to believe that no other Cincinnati bank was involved in Shafer's speculations.

$1,000,000 Tube Is Lost In Atlantic

Havana, June 26.—(AP)—Doubt was expressed today that the $1,000,000 tube which broke its moorings and sank to the bottom of the ocean off Matanzas yesterday could be salvaged.
The tube, built by Professor Georges Claude, French scientist, in an effort to revolutionize industry by putting the Gulf Stream to work, was a mile long and large enough for a young boy to walk through erect.
When the valves on the compressed air tanks at the extreme end of the tube were opened the dead weight of the tube snapped the inch-thick cables holding it and the tube sank in nearly 4,000 feet of water.
Engineers said the tube would break in pieces if an attempt were made to raise it. Professor Claude remained silent as to his next step.
The tube was constructed to haul water from the ocean depths to be used to condense steam which Professor Claude hoped to obtain by submitting the warmer Gulf Stream water to vacuum.
Professor Claude believed energy could be produced with 75 per cent efficiency.

FROM MY HIGH WINDOW

BELOW my window, far, far down,
Are waving trees and roofs of brown,
And people in the street who look
Like dwarfs from out a fairy book.

I am a giant standing here,
And there is nothing that I fear;
Some days it almost seems that I Could ride the clouds as they float by.
Dear clouds, I think I hear you say,
"Please, little boy, come out and play."
If you will ask my mother, too,
Then we might still away with you.

A beautiful rock garden is a delight to the family and friends at the T. W. Clayton home on Peoria avenue; supplemented by a lovely flower garden with delphinium, lilies, roses, etc.
At the Oliver Hoover home in North Dixon on a hillside is a rock garden, the result of the work of Mrs. Hoover. Growing on the hillside are wild flowers of many descriptions, some of them very rare. It is worth the time to visit this beautiful rock garden. One Sunday the Hoovers entertained fifty or more guests who viewed the garden and enjoyed the coolness of the woods back of their home, the trees being allowed to grow and afford a deep shade.

Many nice gardens were mentioned in garden visiting week and the names of people given who would welcome visitors. Some specialize in one or two flowers and did not think their garden worthy of visiting. But there is a great civic pride in Dixon and many many gardens are worthy of mention. Mrs. O. P. Goeke has had this year some of the most perfect specimens of the Madonna lily ever brought to the attention of the paper. Mrs. Will Smith's garden of these lilies scents the entire neighborhood, she has so many of them. They grow in the yards of the Joe McCleary home, the Charles Russell home, and here may be mentioned the pretty flower garden and rock garden at the George Beier home in North Dixon; and the lovely flower garden in the rear of the Charles Todd and Jason Miller home on N. Galena avenue, and the equally fine gardens of Dr. LaCour and Mrs. Starks.

Delightful Parties For Mrs. Brayman

A number of enjoyable pre-nuptial parties were given in honor of Miss Mary Wellman recently, at Rockville, Lee Center and at Dixon on Saturday evening. The bride-to-be, now Mrs. Brayman, her wedding occurring Tuesday afternoon, was honored by two Dixon friends Saturday evening, with miscellaneous shower. Mrs. Clifford Floto and Miss Aletatha Hubbell entertained at the Floto home, with two tables of bridge, followed by the shower of gifts. Pink was the charming color arrangement and the flowers were pink roses. Mrs. Brayman was awarded the favor for high honors and Miss Mildred Jacobson won the consolation favor. The guests of honor received many nice gifts with best wishes of her friends. A delicious luncheon was served, and a happy social hour enjoyed as the gifts were opened.

Miss Grace Wellman of Ottawa, Ill., a registered nurse, was present at the enjoyable affair.

A shower was given Saturday afternoon at Lee Center at the J. L. Richardson home. Mrs. Mark Smith of Rockville, sister of Mrs. Brayman, was in attendance, and Miss Grace Wellman.

Brayman-Wellman Wedding at Grandy

A very pretty June wedding took place at the quaint old stone church on Grand Detour Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Miss Mary A. Wellman and Earl W. Brayman being united in marriage at this time. The impressive Episcopal service was read by Rev. A. B. Whitcombe, of Dixon. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Grace Wellman of Ottawa, as maid of honor. Earl Weeber of Grand Rapids, Michigan, was the best man.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, W. H. Wellman, of Lee Center. Jean Brayman, daughter of the groom, and Marilyn Smith, niece of the bride and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mark B. Smith of Rockville, were the flower girls.

Preceding the ceremony, Walter Wellman, of Ransom, a brother of the bride, sang "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life" and "I Love You Truly." Miss Philippa Flack, of Amboy, played Mendelssohn's Wedding March, as the bridal party formed.

The lovely bride wore a charming rock of peach colored tulle with accessories to match and the maid of honor wore orchid chiffon with accessories matching. Both wore corsages of roses and lilies.

A reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Richardson, of Lee Center, which was attended by forty guests. Those from a distance were: Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Brayman, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Weeber and Jean Brayman, of Grand Rapids, Mich., and Mrs. Esther Glass, of Evans-ton.

After a three weeks' honeymoon in a motor trip in Michigan, Mr. and Mrs. Brayman will take up their residence in the apartment which they have been furnishing in the home of Mrs. M. D. Hathaway. Mr. Brayman is sales representative for the Caron Spinning Co. of Rockville. He is a genial young man with hosts of friends who extend best wishes to him and his charming bride who has many friends in Dixon, where for several years she was stenographer to the different Y. M. C. A. secretaries, and she became quite well acquainted here during that time. Friends here join in extending best wishes to the young couple.

Mrs. Baldwin Hostess At Luncheon Today

Mrs. H. V. Baldwin entertained today at a very charming luncheon for her daughter, Mrs. Harold Hyde of Bay City, Michigan, and for Mrs. George Wilson of Chicago, guest of Mrs. W. G. Durkes.

There were six guests at the daintily appointed luncheon, the decorations being in delphinium and lilies.

French Club Entertained at Necedah

Mrs. Lester Wilhelm was hostess to the French club No. 2 at Necedah Lodge yesterday where they spent a most enjoyable day. The luncheon at noon was a happy feature. In the afternoon a game of bridge was proposed and Mrs. Irving Countryman was presented the favor for high honors and Mrs. William Covert won the consolation favor.

Happy Day at Edgewood Country Club

Such a pleasant day was spent by all the ladies who were entertained by the Polo ladies at the Edgewood Country Club. The Edgewood course is beautifully laid out and has many natural hazards. Ladies were present from Freeport, Dixon, Oregon and Polo clubs.

At golf Miss Williams of Freeport was first with three up; Mrs. Willard Thompson of Dixon, was second; even; Mrs. Levy of Oregon was third; two down. Mrs. Schryver and Mrs. Feise of Polo tied.

Mrs. M. L. Dysart of Dixon and Mrs. Burt of Freeport tied for putting and Mrs. Dysart won.

The luncheon served at noon by the Edgewood caterers was all that could be desired and the club rooms looked most inviting. The prizes were unusually pretty and appropriate.

Some of the guests enjoyed a game of bridge, also.

MR. AND MRS. MOSHER NOW LIVE IN DIXON

Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Mosher and family of Gadsden, Ala., have returned to Dixon, (which we all admit is the nicest place to live in the entire U. S. A.) to make their home. They have purchased a home on North Dixon avenue. Dixon friends welcome them back.

A NEW AGE OF BELIEF.

The present age is an age of skepticism.

A glance at any modern magazine, a study of any religious publication, a survey of the weekly output of sermons in any city, will convince you of that. The average writer or preacher seems to take it for granted that unbelief is more firmly entrenched today than ever before. The skeptic is having his hey-day.

But things move in cycles, and no great period of doubt—for there have been others, in the history of the world—has ever lasted for long. To discern an age of faith lying beyond the present age of skepticism may seem a job for a man with uncommonly good eyes; yet there are those who do discern it, and who are confident that its advent is not so very far off.

There is, for instance, Salvador de Madariaga, one of the most thoughtful, intelligent Europeans alive today.

Writing for the New York Herald-Tribune, Senor de Madariaga expresses the belief that the western world is about to "re-discover God"—to emerge from its era of weary disbelief into an era of faith and wonder, which are the hallmarks of all devotion.

His reasons for advancing this proposition are interesting. A few decades ago science suddenly expanded the scope of its operations. It upset many old beliefs, dug up many new facts and theories about the world, caused many men to look doubtfully at dogmas that had gone unquestioned for centuries and raised that peculiar, fascinating, terrifying specter of a mechanical, soulless universe.

This, as much as anything, is back of modern skepticism. But now, says Senor de Madariaga, science is taking a new tack. It is beginning to realize that it has merely scratched the surface of knowledge. A generation ago science believed that it would only be a matter of time before all of the creation were laid bare; now it is beginning to admit that there are many things that it will never know. It is, in fact, beginning to see that man's finite capacity for understanding makes it inevitable that the greater part of the universe about him will always be a mystery to him. So, says this writer:

"Science is the theology of the westerner; the way, the method, toward God. Science leads to the conclusion that the world—including matter—can only be explained in terms of intelligent energy. The time is therefore at hand when the westerner will see God with the only eyes he possesses for spiritual realities—the eyes of the intellect."

The world, in other words, is not the easily-understood place some cock-sure investigators have thought. The chemist and the physicist are daily proving that it is filled with mystery and wonder. Is it not possible, then—even probable—that we are the verge of a great quickening and awakening, in which the old awe, the old sense of being in the presence of unutterable marvels, will once again be a part of the daily life of every man?

RUMANIA'S ERRANT KING.

Rumania's prodigal son has come home again. He spent a fortune in riotous living but his people killed the fatted calf and put the purple robe around his shoulders when he came back. After all, if a king has a kingdom it is his place to stay at home and annex his signature to state papers when it is necessary, instead of getting himself talked about all over the world, they are thinking.

So King Carol II is back and little Prince Michael can play marbles and leapfrog instead of watching the other youngsters through the palace windows.

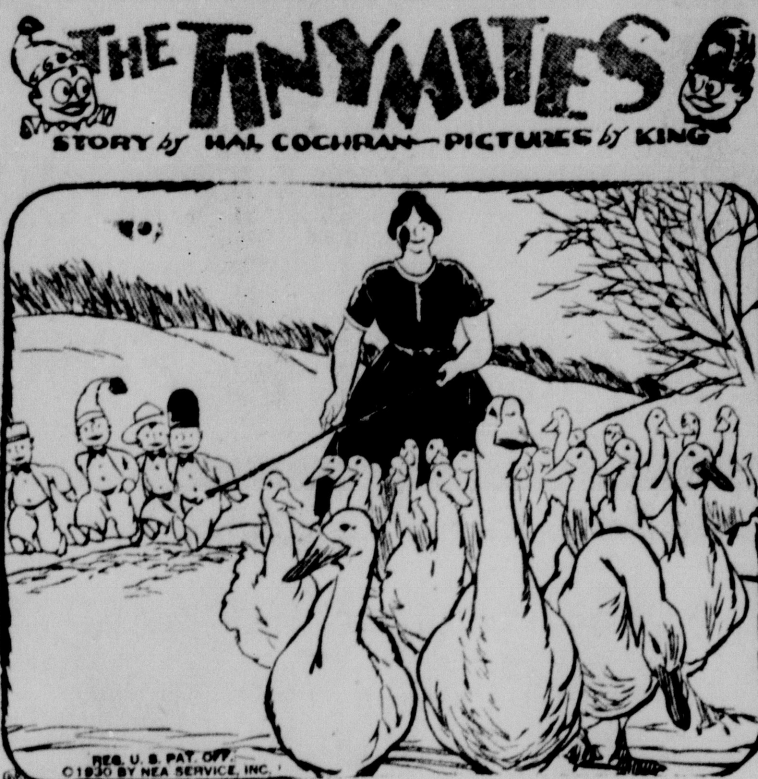

The way in which Rumania has welcomed back the errant, profligate Carol is illustrative of the almost divine worship which the nation has for its rulers. The old divine right of kings, which stated that they were God-given, and hence could do no wrong, has not been entirely discarded. Carol's subjects, while they do not condone his imprudent adventures, can still forgive them enough to anoint him as their ruler.

The Rumanian situation should make every American more fully appreciate the privilege of living in a country where men's deeds elect them to their offices; where they win their spurs instead of finding them polished and waiting at birth; where worth, not birth, is master.

"Ludendorff blames Charlemagne for the defeat of the Kaiser in the World War." You don't mean champagne, do you Ludy?

Members of the Reichstag have been ordered not to remove their coats during summer sessions. During heated debates it would be more to the point to remind them to keep their shirts on.

Brooklyn, sometimes called "the bedroom of New York," should be just the place to try out those new shorts and treet pajamas.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

Queer looking Russians drifted in the eating place. Each one would grin at all the happy Tinymites. Some stopped and shook their hands. "Hello," said Clowdy. "How are you?" It seemed the one he spoke to knew just what he said. Then Scouty cried, "Oh, gee! He understands."

The Travel Man said, "Sure he does. He understands you well because he's had a fine education. Ask him to join our crowd. I'm sure he'd like to sit right here and 'twill be nice to have him near. To eat with one real native man should make you all feel proud."

So Scouty said, "Please have a seat. We'll buy your lunch. This is our treat. Then you can tell us heaps of things 'bout Russia we don't know." "Well, this is fine," replied the man. "I gladly tell you all I can. If you wee lads are traveling, I'll tell you where to go." That Moscow was a wondrous place.

Then down he sat and, as they ate, he promptly started to relate "Don't miss it, boy," he said. "When you have finished with your lunch you'd better take my kindly lunch. I wonder, will you do it?" And each Tiny shook his head.

In just about an hour or so, the Tinymites were set to go. The Travel Man then got a big machine, and off they went. They rode through very pretty spots. "Oh, my, we're seeing lots and lots," said Coppy. "This, to me, is how real pleasant hours are spent."

Once, down a long winding road the auto stopped and lost its load. The Tinymites all jumped right out to see a lovely sight. "Oh, my! Will wonders never cease?" said Carpy. "It's a pack of geese. Let's watch them as they waddle past, but don't give them a fright."

(The Tinymites feed pigeons in Moscow in the next story.)

LORD KELVIN'S BIRTH

On June 26, 1824, Lord Kelvin (William Thomson), British physicist and mathematician, called one of the greatest scientific intellects of the latter half of the 19th century was born at Belfast, Ireland.

Kelvin studied at the Universities of Glasgow and Cambridge and also under the famous Regnault at Paris. Because of his valuable contributions to science during this time, he was appointed professor of philosophy at Glasgow University when only 22. He held this post for 53 years.

One of Kelvin's earliest papers dealt with the age of the earth. By his studies in the conduction of heat Kelvin showed that the earth's age was not unlimited but that it was within 20 millions of years old. The resulting controversy among scientists has lasted until the present day.

Kelvin's most popular achievement perhaps was his invention of a mariner's compass that was free from the magnetic action of the iron of the ship. He later adopted the absolute system of measurement based on the centimeter, the gram and the second. The unit of electric energy known as the kilowatt hour was first defined by him. Kelvin was knighted chiefly in acknowledgement of his service as engineer to the cable company which inaugurated trans-Atlantic telegraphy.

Murder Charge Was Filed In Arson Case

Indianapolis, Ind., June 25—(UP)—A charge of first degree murder was filed against Harold Herbert Schroeder of Mobile, Ala., by Chief of Detectives Fred Simon today.

The body of an unidentified man was found in Schroeder's charred automobile near Indianapolis last May 31 and an arson charge had been filed against the Mobile man previous to today's action.

Schroeder was taken from jail to police headquarters, for further questioning, in an effort to shake his story that the victim was a hitch hiker who suffered a broken neck when Schroeder dozed and let their run into a ditch.

The prisoner contends that after he found that his companion was dead, he drove to the point near Indianapolis where the car and body were found, and set the fire because he feared a murder accusation.

Santa Barbara, Cal.—George Mikos, recently found a yolkless egg. Mikos, a restaurant owner, received an order for "two over easy." He broke one egg into a pan and it was perfect. But the next egg, on being broken, yielded no yolk. When the two were in the pan only one yolk was there for the two of them.

EAST-TO-WEST FLIGHT OF NORTH ATLANTIC OCEAN TOO HAZARDOUS SOUTHERN CROSS AVIATORS SAY

Members Of Crew Want No More Similar Experiences

(Copyright, 1930, by United Press) Harbor Grace, N. F., June 26.—(UP)—The hazards of the westward crossing of the North Atlantic Ocean which have baffled so many fliers in the past, were recounted to the United Press by four aviators of the Southern Cross on their arrival here from Ireland yesterday.

Capt. Charles E. Kingsford-Smith and his three companions were the first fliers to reach the North American mainland after a flight from Europe. They agreed it was "a wonderful experience," but all added that they would not try it again.

"The Atlantic flight from east to west is a most uninviting adventure, trying human courage and endurance," Capt. Kingsford-Smith said. "I doubt it will ever become a practical commercial venture, as storms rage in some sectors of the route several hours out of the 24, besetting the trip with inconceivable dangers."

"The first half of the trip the plane averaged 90 miles an hour, when we ran into headwinds and were buffeted for five hours by heavy gusts from many points of the compass."

"We made only about 75 miles an hour then, but the plane behaved splendidly, the crew discharging their duties admirably, fearlessly and coolly under the most strain and amid the greatest dangers."

Delightful Thrills.
J. W. Stannage, the 26-year-old New Zealand radio operator, said he had flown as radio operator on many flights, but that he would not have missed the thrill and adventure of the Southern Cross' trans-Atlantic hop for all the rest.

The Southern Cross was the first westbound trans-Atlantic plane equipped with radio, and Stannage said the instruments worked perfectly throughout the flight, giving the four men boxed up together high over the ocean a feeling of companionship with the outside world.

"We experienced unusual difficulty working with Cape Race during the night," Stannage said, "but we picked up many ships. During the hours between midnight and 6 A. M. transmission was exceedingly difficult, and we felt the cold very much."

The Irish member of the crew, Captain John Patrick Saul, navigator, gave a detailed account of the aerial voyage.

"For the first ten hours out across the sea, the weather was moderate," he said, "but the visibility was bad and it got worse."

Visibility Poor.
"Throughout the whole flight we had not a single hour of good visibility. We got sight of the sun twice after midday—once for ten minutes at 2 P. M. Greenwich time. "From that time on we flew through dense fog and darkness against a strong westerly wind. It got cold, and the temperature was exceedingly low all through the night."

"We got sight of the stars for a minute or two twice, but had no opportunity to discern our position while dashing onward. During the early hours of the morning, we discovered our compass was at variation and a check-up showed it had fallen. "From that hour we flew blindly, trying to keep on our course by wireless. We realized we were flying erratically. This continued until daylight, when, through drifting clouds at an elevation of 5000 feet, we got sight of land."

"We supposed it was in the vicinity of Cape Race, and shaped our course north without knowing in what direction exactly Harbor Grace was. We flew for three and one-half hours and got sight of a village which was apparently Bay Roberts, four miles west of here."

Couldn't See Fields.
"Mist enveloped the countryside. We could not sight the fields, and continued flying for nearly two hours during which we passed over Harbor Grace airport and flew several miles west."

"Returning, flying low, we sighted a group of people on the field, and were convinced it was the airport. So we landed."

Evert Van Dyk, the Dutchman who was co-pilot on the flight, told his story in a broad, Dutch accent.

"We had one dam-hell of a time for 23 hours," he said, grinning. "We reached clouds, and then rose through them to the sky, but there half-way between the clouds and the sky the wind was blowing in a circle. The old Southern Cross plunged onward with all cylinders hitting."

"Was it cold? Almost frozen the last ten hours, and didn't know where we were, but we had to keep going anyway. After the compass failed we flew wholly by guessing."

Captain Kingsford-Smith revealed that after arriving in New York he would fly to Oakland, Calif.

"But I will not fly the Atlantic again, either east or west," he said. "I will take a steamer home, and quit all hazardous adventures."

Captain Kingsford-Smith is to be married in the fall to Miss Mary Powell of Melbourne, Australia.

WILL CELEBRATE END OF STATE'S FIRST GANGSTERS

Ogle County Communities To Dedicate Monument Sunday

Northern Illinois' first gangster era and how grimly and completely the law abiding pioneers ended it will be recalled on Sunday, when White Rock Grange will unveil a monument to the memory of John Campbell, leader of the Regulators, assassinated because he had decreed the end of border outlawry.

It was back in 1841 that the pioneers of this region, stirred by the crimes of counterfeiting, horse-stealing, robbery and murder, committed with almost open contempt for the law decided the time had come to clean up the locality.

In the spring of that year reputable citizens principally residents of White Rock and Paynes Point in Ogle county, conferred with Judge Ford, then holding circuit court in Oregon. Judge Ford realized the impotence of the civil authorities. He advised the committee to form a company round up the lawless, strip them to the waist and punish them with a blacksnake whip. He suggested 36 lashes for the first offense, 60 for the second and expulsion from the country.

Name Campbell Captain.
The Regulators formed an organization of Ogle and Winnebago county men and made John Campbell, a highly respected and fearless Scotch Presbyterian, their captain. Two men were punished with the whip.

The gangsters, or banditti of the prairie, as they were known, boastfully announced it would be open war. One William Driscoll wrote Captain Campbell a note filled with ugly oaths and challenged the Regulators to meet his men in battle June 22 at his home in South Grove.

The Regulators, 196 strong, mounted and carrying the American flag, marched to the place designated. They found 17 men barricaded in a log house. Campbell sent one of his men to the cabin with a message. As the messenger approached, the outlaws dashed from the house and disappeared in the woods.

Campbell was shot down in his door yard a few days later, at two o'clock Sunday afternoon, June 28, 1841. A crude marker may now be found in the back yard of Fred Aaron's home, four miles northwest of Kings, which reads:

J. CAMPBELL,
Captain of the Regulators,
Shot Here
By PRAIRIE BANDITS
June 28, 1841.

It was a murder which shook the pioneer country for miles. The news of his death spread almost as quickly as it would in this day of telegraph and radio. Hundreds of men gathered in what proved to be a successful ending of banditry in northern Illinois.

The shaft dedicated to his memory will be unveiled in the White Rock cemetery, located near the scene of the murder. An impressive program is being prepared.

AROUND THE WORLD WITH THE ROVING SOUTHERN CROSS

The romantic career of the monoplane Southern Cross and Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith, her daring pilot, is depicted in this set of pictures. The map shows the plane's voyages, the unbroken line representing the final link, now being completed, in what will eventually be a complete circling of the globe.

The pictures show:

1—Capt. Kingsford-Smith (center) being congratulated by Col. John Howard, of the U. S. air corps, on his arrival at Honolulu on his famous Pacific flight.
2—The crowd that formed around the Southern Cross on its arrival at Suva, in the Fiji Islands.
3—Mr. and Mrs. Kingsford-Smith, the flyer's parents, photographed as they watched his arrival at Sydney, Australia.

4—An aerial view showing the Southern Cross in the desolate Canberra section of Australia, where it was forced down in a wilderness and was missing for days following the daring Pacific flight.
5—Capt. Kingsford-Smith addressing the thousands who gathered to greet him on his arrival at Sydney.
6—Capt. Kingsford-Smith (right) and C. T. Ulm, his co-pilot arriving in London after the flight from Australia.

Family Hurlled to Death by Escaped Mad Man

While horrified spectators looked helplessly on from the ground below, Raymond C. Spang, an escaped maniac, hurled his wife and their four children, then himself, to their deaths from the top of 400-foot West Rock Cliff at New Haven, Conn. Spang, a World War veteran, is shown above at left with Mrs. Spang and three of his child victims, Helen (left), Lorraine (center) and Raymond, Jr. The picture at the right was taken at the scene just before Spang, indicated by the lower arrow, threw himself from the cliff after the wholesale killing of his family. He had scrambled part way down the rocky face to elude pursuers. The upper arrow points to a fireman who had been lowered over the cliff by a rope to entreat the mad man to give himself up.

Flier Risked Life To Save Companions

Chicago, June 26.—(AP)—Lieut. C. W. Feldman, 22, lay critically injured in Evanston hospital today after risking his life to save 17 of his fellow fliers from possible injury.

While taking off last night from Curtiss Field, Feldman's airplane was caught in the "backwash" from the propellers of the 94th Pursuit Squadron, here from Selfridge Field for war maneuvers.

Fearing his airplane might become entangled in the wings of the others, Feldman sideslipped out of formation and crashed before he could right his craft.

He was pinned in the cockpit, and his skull fractured.

Nurses will find Record Sheets at the B. F. Shaw Printing Co.

Capone Gunner Is Facing Year's Term

Chicago, June 26.—(UP)—"Scarface" Al Capone's crack machine gunner, Jack McGurn, appears doomed to follow in the footsteps of his notorious chief and serve a year in jail for carrying a pistol.

McGurn, who cast aside his real name of Demore when he became a "big shot" in gangland, was convicted yesterday by a jury after two ballots.

His usual suave court demeanor was ruffled by the conviction, the first any leader in the Capone mob has drawn. The dapper gunman more astonished than frightened when the jury foreman pronounced the words, "guilty as charged."

RUPTURE

By Frank D. Jennings, M. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.

(This series of articles is prepared under the direction of the Gorgas Memorial Institute, which is organized to perpetuate the life work of the late Major-General Gorgas in preventing unnecessary illness. The headquarters of the Institute are at 1331 G Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.)

A rupture is one of the commonest defects in the human machine and is an example of how even as perfect a mechanism as ours has defects. The technical name for a rupture is hernia. This is a much better title, because the word "rupture" denotes a tearing or breaking process, and we now know that no such thing occurs. In fact, most hernias are the direct result of a defect which existed at birth.

There are many kinds of hernias. Some of them are on the inside of the abdomen. Others, and these are the most common, show themselves on the surface of the body.

The abdominal cavity is like a house, the walls of which have certain openings. It is the existence of these apertures that leads to the development of hernia. They are of different sizes, and through them go blood vessels, nerves and other important structures. But if a hole is a little too large for its special purpose, a defect is created through which any of the contents of the abdomen may slip out. When such a slip happens, then and there a hernia occurs or begins.

A hernia is a bag, or sac, made of peritoneum, the smooth, shiny membrane which lines the abdominal cavity. This sac may be as small as an olive or large enough to reach to the knees. It may be empty or may contain almost any of the viscera. Large sacs may get through small openings, but large openings always mean large hernias.

The contents of the sac may slip in and out of the abdomen easily. If so, the hernia is called reducible. If the contents cannot be returned to the cavity, it is called irreducible. If it is irreducible and contains intestine, thus shutting off the current of the bowel, it is termed incarcerated. And if, in addition, its blood supply is cut off, it is called strangulated.

The chief dangers associated with a rupture are those of incarceration and strangulation for these conditions mean that the contents of the sac are trapped and literally strangulated. Strangulation may occur in any hernia, at any time, at any age. When it occurs here is pain at the site of the hernia, with vomiting, prostration and inability of the bowels to act. It is a very serious condition for which the only relief is prompt operation. The danger increases with every hour that operation is delayed.

While surgical operation is the accepted method of treatment for the relief of hernia many individuals thus afflicted wear a truss. The use of a truss is beneficial in naval ruptures in the new born, in certain hernias in children, and in those patients who, for one reason or another, cannot be operated on. In adults, a well applied truss will keep the empty but will not cure the rupture. It is, a good precaution against strangulation.

Increased knowledge of the mechanics of hernia and improved methods of operating enable the surgical profession to cope with this problem more successfully all the time. The mortality of the operation is almost negligible. The increase in comfort of living and in the ability to enjoy activities, unrestricted by hernia or by hernia and truss, the freedom from risk of strangulation, the added earning capacity ensured by cure of a rupture, are all reasons why anyone possessing a hernia would do well to be operated on and be rid of it.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

BY AHERN

FRANK J. FAHEY, VICE PRESIDENT OF THE GILLETTE SAFETY RAZOR COMPANY, SAYS:

That Americans, whether we admit it or not, are lazy.

The development of modern science have done so much in the economy of time that we have gradually relaxed into a lazy attitude which we expect will be fostered by the time and labor saving appliances of everyday life. Instead of utilizing the time which is saved to further develop and expand, we await the creation of the next appliances that makes possible further time for indolence. We are the most favored of God's people and there is a grave danger of being lulled into a complacent attitude of forgetfulness. We are rich as a nation, and to often with wealth comes self-sufficiency. Countries which have directly suffered the ravages of war have rolled up their sleeves and are outstripping us in many spheres.

Germany has startled the world with her advancement. The loser in the conflict, she now enjoys comparative economic independence while the victors quibble and lose ground. We must admire this "come back" of the German nation accomplished by hard work. From a leader in instruments of war she becomes a leader in instruments of peace. The Bremen, Europa, Graf Zeppelin suddenly awaken other nations from their lethargy. Italy, personified by Mussolini, is an energetic example. Perhaps no contemporary leader has so emphatically proven the profits of diligence and the losses of laziness. Quoting from "My Twenty-Four Hours", a series of articles published by the United Press Association, he says:

"It has been my rule of life to employ the body and mind of render the maximum output. We have not yet fully exploited the potentialities of physical and mental man to the point of calling him efficient. Just now we can but meditate on these possibilities and try to attain as best we can the limit of our capabilities."

What a precept for all Americans! What an indictment of many!

To what purpose can American manufacturers employ the abundance of time made possible by the development of modern science? The American manufacturer has made only a feeble attempt to reach the foreign markets for his product. By investigation and research into the world's markets he will develop avenues of distribution for his products which will absorb his mass production, and he should approach these markets with a desire to learn and not in the spirit of arrogance too common in American business today, and HE SHOULD BUILD UP HIS DOMESTIC MARKETS. TAKE CARE OF THE TRADE AT HOME, BUT GO OUT AND GET HIS PROPER SHARE OF THE WONDERFUL EXPORT MARKETS THAT ARE LYING IN WAIT FOR AMERICAN GENIUS, AMERICAN SKILL AND AMERICAN MERCHANDISING BRAINS.

Baseball Gossip

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Separated by one game in the standing, the Robins and the Cubs open in Chicago today a series of four games which probably will decide which will reach July 4, the traditional turning point of the season, on top.

Brooklyn has held first place for about a month with a crippled Cub team hanging right onto the next rung of the ladder. The Robins did a little sliding yesterday losing to the Pittsburgh Pirates 5 to 1. They can lose again today and still remain ahead but only by a few percentage points.

The Cubs hit the Philadelphia pitching much more freely but barely pulled out the game by a 13 to 12 score to sweep the three game series and score their eighth victory in their last nine starts. Gabby Hartnett drove in the winning run in the ninth after his two home runs and a single had brought in five other runs.

The Cincinnati Reds shoved the New York Giants deeper into third place, by winning the series final, 11 to 3, to break even in the four games.

It was Babe Ruth day again in the American League as the home run king hit two wallop of his favorite kind to lead the New York straight double header. Ruth hit his 25th and 26th home runs in the second game, heading a 20 hit attack that resulted in a 16 to 4 triumph after the Yanks had edged out a 5 to 4 victory in the opener.

The day's results were all in favor

"I am sure Konjola will work if given a fair trial. For five years I had a nervous disorder and kidney trouble, and for months did not sleep more than an hour or two at night. I lost my appetite, and my system became filled with poisons from an open sore on my leg. I tried many medicines but my condition became all the worse. I knew a person who endorsed Konjola, and I started the treatment. The second bottle was enough to show me that I had found the right medicine. I have taken five bottles and they have done more for me than all else I tried put together. I sleep soundly; the sore has improved; kidneys are normal and my nerves much better. I intend to continue using Konjola until I have taken eight bottles."

Quit experimenting; profit by the joyous experiences of those who know what Konjola has done.

"Konjola is sold and recommended by all the better drug stores in Dixon, Illinois and throughout this section."

of the Yankees, leaving them only a half game behind Washington and two behind the league leading Philadelphia Athletics. The Senators held onto second place by beating the Cleveland Indians for the fourth successive time, 13 to 5.

The Athletics got an even break with the Chicago White Sox, romping through the first game 8 to 1. Chicago took the second, 7 to 2. Jack Russell of the Boston Red Sox had just one bad inning against Detroit, the eighth, but that was enough to give the Tigers the game, 4 to 3.

Attendance Record Expected In Chicago

Chicago, June 26—(AP)—Another attendance record for a four game series was anticipated at Wrigley Field today as the Brooklyn Robins and the championship Cubs opened their four game warfare for first place in the National League race.

Granted good weather for the series, 145,000 fans are expected to jam the north side park to see the games. It is the first time in several years that the Robins, now riding the crest of the league, have been a drawing card in themselves.

More than 25,000 women will be admitted free on Friday, which is "Ladies Day" at the park.

Eddie Burns, nemesis to Dixon, will hurl for Polo and Clark will catch. Powell has secured players from Rockford and Freeport and now boasts the strongest team that Polo has ever had on the field. Petty and Weeks will be the battery for the Independents.

On the Fourth of July the Chicago Union Giants will come to Dixon. They are the oldest colored team in the middle west, now on their 44th season.

ILLINOIS WILL SOON BE CENTER OF POPULATION

Prediction Made In C. Of
C. Booklet Just Off
The Press

Springfield, Ill., June 26.—(UP)—Prediction that Illinois will soon become the center of population in the United States is forecast in an article on "Population," contained in a book entitled "Illinois—Its Resources, Population and Development," published by the Illinois Chamber of Commerce and just off the press.

According to the article which is based on the report of the Chamber's Industrial Development Committee, the State of Illinois takes its name from an Indian tribe, which at the time of the early French explorations, inhabited the area now comprising Illinois and adjacent parts of Wisconsin, Iowa and Missouri. The name is the Gallicized plural of the Indian "Illini," meaning man.

The article recites considerable history of the state, explains that the French were the first to discover the country and that it came into the possession of the British in 1762 who ceded it to the United States in 1783. It was granted statehood in 1818.

The state's first record on population is that of 1810 when it was a territory and had 12,282 inhabitants. Two years after being admitted as a state it reached a population of 55,211.

It continued to jump by the hundred thousand until 1850 when it had 851,470 residents. It went well beyond the million mark in 1860 and ten years later had a population of 2,539,891. It sailed past the three million mark in 1880 and in 1900 its residents numbered 4,821,550. In 1910 it was 5,638,391 and in 1920 was 6,483,280.

According to the article the movement of the center of the country's population is westward and toward Illinois.

"The nearer it comes to Illinois, the slower the movement, from which it may be concluded that Illinois will soon have the center of population and will, no doubt, hold it for many years," it stated.

According to the article the center of native white population of the country is on the state line between Indiana and Illinois, east of Robinson.

The center of rural population in the United States is in Franklin county.

Rural population in the state is declining the article states.

"Fifty six counties in 1920 showed a decline, fifty in 1910; while in 1909 there were only six that had less people than in 1890," it stated. "The smaller town development is assuming importance. Seventeen towns with populations of over 25,000 were found in 1920, while in 1900 there were but seven."

BUILDING UP BASEBALL TEAM LESSON THEME

Sheriff W. Miller's Weekly Discussion of Problems Of Game

The proper manner in which to build up a baseball team is the subject of the third of a series of articles prepared by Ward T. Miller, former National league baseball star, who is delivering the course of instruction sponsored by the Telegraph throughout Lee county, in which more than 250 boys are showing a keen interest. The instruction for this week is as follows:

In my third article on baseball I am going to explain the building-up of a good baseball club. A major league club of today consists of 25 players after June 1 and until September 1. During the spring training, the club may carry as many players as desired and this same rule applies again in the fall when new material is being selected.

The key to a good ball club is the catcher. The holder of this position must be able to accomplish everything that is necessary on the diamond and must necessarily possess the mentality, as he directs every ball pitched. He must know what kind of a ball the batter does not like and any mistake he may make may prove very costly. He must be alert at all times, breaking up hit and run plays and watching for a bunt.

The infielders at all times watch the catcher and know his signals to the pitcher. They generally shift one way or another on every ball pitched to the opposing batter. Observe any club that is up in the race in any league, then look up the catcher and you will find that he has a fine record. Clubs that trail in the percentage columns are short of the good catcher.

The next need to a successful ball club is the shortstop and second baseman. They are the players that must be good at all times. They must know every batter, where he hits and they handle more chances and make more plays than any two other players on the team. On these two positions depend the double plays. With a base runner on first, second must be covered at all times. They use signals to flash to one another which decides which player will cover second.

After English Team Defeated U. S. Net Stars for the Wightman Cup

That Wightman trophy was a cup of tears for America's feminine net stars. The coveted prize—symbolic of Anglo-American women's tennis supremacy—had fallen into English hands when the picture above was taken, showing the finish of the doubles match which decided the tournament at Wimbledon, England. On the far side of the net, Helen Wills Moody (right) and Helen Jacobs of California are seen running to congratulate Mrs. L. A. Godfree (in foreground) and Mrs. Holcroft Watson on their victory. The score was 7-5, 1-6, 6-4.

Tinker and Evers of the old Cubs watched every signal given the catcher to the pitcher and they covered according to every ball pitched. With a runner on first and another on third, the double steal must be watched closely. Both take a running start when the ball is pitched. One goes in behind the pitcher and the other will cover second base, so that if the runner on third starts for home, the player back of the pitcher will catch the throw and peg the ball to the catcher at the home plate. If the runner on third does not start for home, the player back of the pitcher will allow the ball to go to the player covering second base, who will receive the throw in an effort to catch the runner coming from first to second. This is one of the hardest plays in baseball and requires good players.

After you have these three positions filled, you can select players for first and third base. It is necessary that both of these are fast fielding players but not necessarily, the best hitters. The outfielders must be the dependable hitters. In building up an outfield, it is necessary to have a center fielder who can cover ground fast and field his position well, but in either of the three positions, the fielder must be able to hit the ball consistently.

Any ball club that is in the first division must have a pitching staff. Many a pennant has been won by one star twirler and the rest of the staff what is known as in-and-outers, if they are handled correctly. Some managers find fault with the pitchers and bother them materially in the manner in which they are worked. In baseball this is called "panning." No one knows what the outcome is to be by changing pitchers. If he in doing so, a manager's act works out, he is given credit by the fans as being a smart manager, and if not, it is the opposite.

In baseball, you must take conditions as they confront you and as they appear in the game. You are a hero one day and despised the next. One day you will make a great play or more than one and receive the cheers of the fans, but the next the cheers are apt to change to boos and you are as much disliked as you were a hero before.

Landis Continues To Wield The Big Stick

Chicago, June 26—(AP)—Kenesaw Mountain Landis may be faced with a rebellion within the ranks, but he keeps right on waving his big stick. The latest decision of the Baseball Commissioner is to declare Edwin Moores suspended, second baseman for the Baltimore Orioles, a free agent.

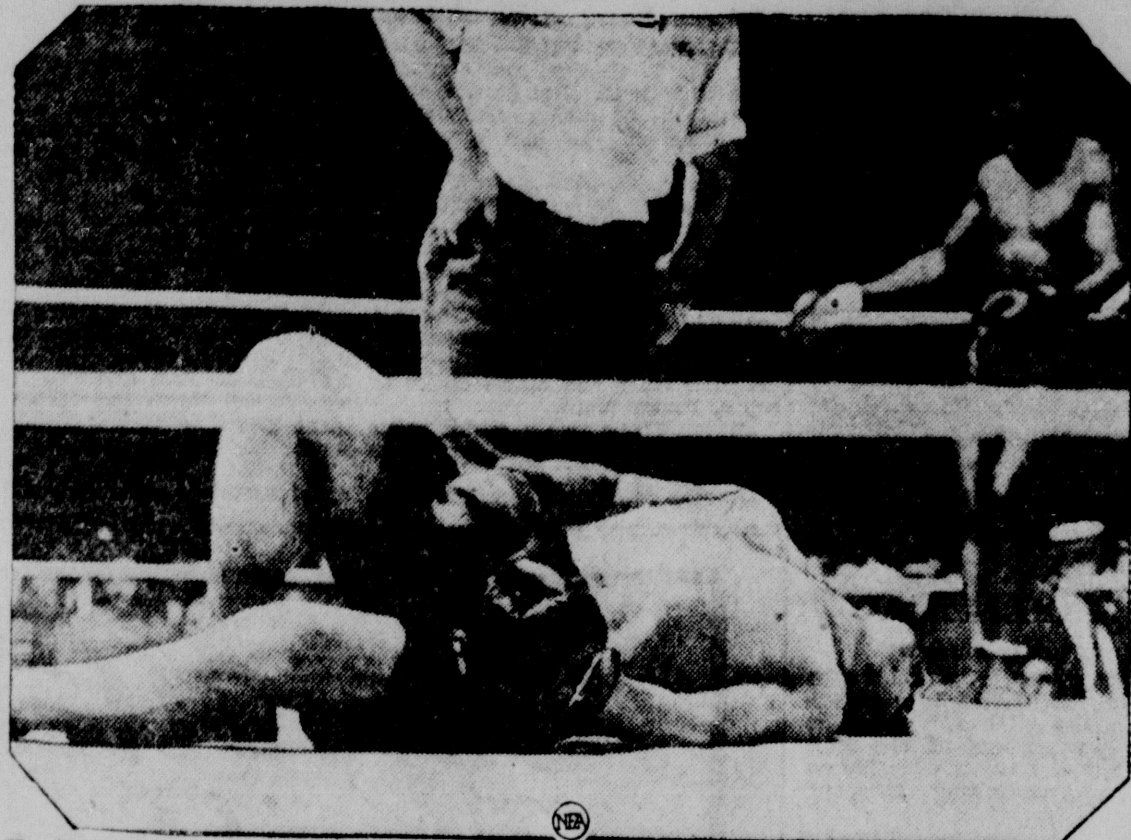

Moores was suspended when he refused to report to Buffalo of the International League on a player deal. He complained to Landis, exhibiting a signed contract in which the Orioles agreed to make him a free agent if they did not send him to a club of higher classification. Despite much protesting by Baltimore, the Commissioner held for Moores.

The action of the Milwaukee club of the American Association in filing suit in federal court to halt Landis' transfer order on Fred Bennett, a Milwaukee outfielder, is pending.

branch of the American Canoe Association to Dixon for their annual Fourth of July cruise on Rock river. The invitation was extended to William S. Holly, chairman of the cruise, at Chicago yesterday. It is expected that about a hundred canoeists will make the trip from Rockford to Dixon over the Fourth, arriving at Lowell park Sunday, July 6 where a fine program will be given.

Enterprise Ahead In Cup Elimination

Newport, R. I., June 26—(UP)—The Aldrich-Vanderbilt yacht Enterprise today had established itself as an outstanding contender for the honor of defending the America Cup against the latest challenge of Sir Thomas Lipton in September.

Although it is the baby of the four candidates as regards size, the Enterprise outlasted its bigger adversaries in each of the three Eastern Yacht Club races the last of which was held over the course off Newport yesterday.

Following its third successive victory, the Enterprise was awarded the Commodore Charles P. Curtis $1,000 cup. The Boston candidate, Yankee, which finished third, behind Weetmoe and the Enterprise yesterday, won the Vice Commander Seth M. Milliken $500 cup, since it had placed second in each of the two previous races.

No Reports On Stag Meets Until Fall

Chicago, June 26—(UP)—A decision regarding the fate of the National Interscholastic Basketball tournament and the Stag track and field national high school meet, probably will not come until fall, according to an announcement from the University of Chicago.

The university has staged the meets for years but this season met opposition from the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. A committee was appointed to investigate and decide whether the tournaments will be held, but the investigating body now is not expected to have its report ready until fall.

Bambino Is Ahead Of His Schedule

Chicago, June 26—(AP)—Babe Ruth's home run barometer today disclosed that the Big Bambino was exactly eight days and two homers ahead of his record breaking schedule of 1927.

He hit two circuit smashes yesterday to give him a seasons' total of 26. In 1927 he did not make his twenty-sixth until July 3. On June 25, 1927, he had only 24 or two less than his present crop.

Hack Wilson of the Cubs and Walter Berger of the Boston Braves are four blows behind Ruth's record-breaking pace and two behind Ruth's 1927 schedule. Hack came close yesterday against Philadelphia but didn't succeed while Berger was idle.

The firm of H. B. and B. Deusterberg buried the body of a Negro woman on July 25, 1884 and the following day a son of the woman, who had been unable to attend the funeral paid all but eight dollars of the expenses.

Last week the same son had occasion to be in Vincennes and paid the account.

100 SETTINGS OF PHEASANT EGGS FOR CO.

State Department Of Conservation Will Send Many Eggs Here

Just at a time when it was feared that Lee county was to be overlooked in the state Department of Conservation's pheasant propagation program this year word was received from Springfield of the plan to place about a hundred settings of pheasant eggs in the county. Individuals who made application for the settings early in the spring are receiving letters from the Department of Conservation headquarters at Springfield, announcing the shipments.

Conservation Inspector Henry Keister of this city sent in names of applicants for the pheasant eggs early in the spring and from present indications, all of these are to be supplied. The eggs will be sent direct from the state hatchery and farm at Yorkville. A hatching ordinarily consists of 21 eggs and it is expected that about a hundred settings will be sent into Lee county which should serve to stimulate the few small flocks of the beautiful birds which are now to be found in some parts of the county.

The introduction and propagation of ring-necked pheasants into Lee county was undertaken four years ago by the Dixon chapter of the Isaac Walton League. Several pairs of the birds were first shipped from the Yorkville farm and this was followed by the settings of eggs which were distributed to all parts of the county where farmers and those who have taken an interest in the program, have been very successful in the releasing of several birds each year.

The eggs are hatched out under an ordinary domestic hen who mothers the delicate little pheasants, who are fed a prepared custard food until thoroughly feathered out. The birds then gradually wander away from the hen and seek out their own habitat where they mate and propagate quite rapidly.

DIXON COMMUNITY BUILDERS

SOME MEMBERS OF LEGISLATURE COMPLETE WORK

Departed From Scene Of Legislative Bat- tles For Last Time

Springfield, Ill., June 26—(UP)—Picturesque characters that have featured sessions of the Illinois State legislature for the last several years departed from the scene of many legislative battles for the last time with the adjournment of a special session of the General Assembly here yesterday.

They are the members whose candidacies were either rejected by the voters in the April primaries or who did not care to make the race for reelection.

Principals among those whose face is being seen for the last time as a member of the house is Reed F. Cutler, Lewistown, republican floor leader during the regime of former Governor Len Small.

Cutler was noted for his attentive pose at his desk on the republican edge of the center aisle. With his desk as a supporting place for his elbow and his chin resting in the palm of his hand, Cutler would sit alertly during a debate and at psychological moments would hurl questions into the breach that often killed or helped to pass a bill.

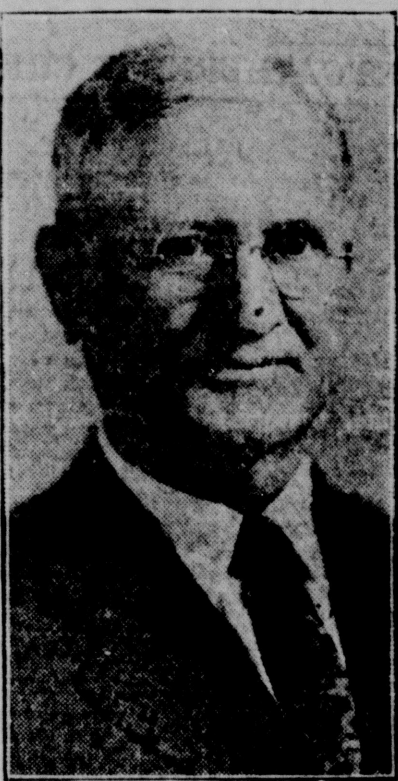

Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill, Downers Grove, republican, first woman member of an Illinois assembly, also will be among those missing. She gave up a chance to return to the house by seeking a seat in the state senate. She was defeated by Richard J. Barr, Joliet.

Another who is casting his last legislative vote is M. P. Rice, Lewistown, democrat, who always made his presence felt by rising to make a "brief explanation of my vote" on any important impending measure.

The Senate likewise is certain to be shy several of its members when it reconvenes for the regular session next January.

Prominent among these is Senator E. J. Abt, East St. Louis republican, whose name was first on every roll call.

Another whose absence will be noted is Senator John Denvir, Chicago, democrat, whose hobby was to rise and oppose speedy passage of any measure.

AFFORD GOODYEARS

THERE never has been a time when the tire-buyer's money could buy as much as right now.

Rubber's cheap — and consequently tire prices are the lowest they've ever been.

People with an eye to values are seizing this chance and making the most of it.

They're buying Goodyear Tires — because right now they can buy them for as little as they used to pay for inferior or unknown tires.

Why are they singling out Goodyear Tires with especial insistence as against all others? Because Goodyear Tires are definitely superior in tread and carcass, the two main parts of a tire.

The Goodyear All-Weather Tread is superior in traction.

The Goodyear Supertwist Carcass is superior in vitality and long life.

You are not asked to accept these statements without inquiry.

Any Goodyear Dealer will be glad to demonstrate the facts. The facts certainly are: Goodyear Tires do give greater value.

As far back as 1916, it became a fact that more people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind.

Every year since that time it has been increasingly true that more people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind.

Today this preference for Goodyears runs into millions: millions more people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind.

More Goodyear Tires than any other kind annually leave motor car factories on new cars—more Goodyear Tires go into service through the great Goodyear dealer organization — more Goodyear Tires are used by transcontinental, urban and interurban buses.

There can be only one conclusion: Goodyear Tires must be better—and at present prices they are a matchless bargain.

Now is the time to get yours.

SO-CALLED RADIO TRUST DEFENDANT IN DAMAGE SUIT

Chicago Manufacturer's Claim of $30,000,000 Damages Is Filed

Kansas City, Mo., June 26—(UP)—The Grigsby-Grunow Company of Chicago, manufacturers of radio receiving sets, sued the so-called "radio trust" for $30,000,000 damages today on charges of illegal competitive practices.

The action was filed in United States District Court here with former United States Senator James A. Reed of Missouri and Ernest R. Reichman of Chicago as attorneys for the plaintiff.

These five companies are named defendants: Radio Corporation of America, General Electric Co., Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co., RCA Victor Co., Inc., and RCA Radiotron Co., Inc.

Claim $30,000,000 Damage
Grigsby-Grunow manufactures radios and claims to be the world's largest independent maker of receiving sets. Its petition charges that the defendant companies caused Grigsby-Grunow to suffer actual damages to the extent of $10,000,000 by enforcing competitive measures which were in restraint of trade. Under the Clayton Act the plaintiff is entitled to recover three-fold the actual damage. Thus the suit seeks to recover $30,000,000.

Former Senator Reed, whose Missouri friends started a presidential boom in his behalf after he had attacked the "radio trust" recently in a banquet address at Sedalia, was uulu lu lululu lululu lululu lululu not in Kansas City when the suit was filed. He and Mrs. Reed are in New York and plan to sail tomorrow for Europe.

Attorney Reichman is not new at radio litigation. He presented the case of the independent radio industry before the Department of Justice recently when the Federal Court in Delaware ruled that the Radio Corporation of America had violated the Clayton Act.

FINANCIAL AID TO CHICAGO TO BE AVAILABLE

The City Will Probably Cash In On New Laws At Once

Springfield, Ill., June 26—(UP)—Financial relief of a legislative nature will begin to be available for Chicago, stricken through a delay in collection of its taxes, tomorrow or Saturday, the United Press learned here today.

The bills, which were passed in the closing session of the General Assembly here yesterday, were sent to Attorney General Oscar E. Carlstrom yesterday afternoon and he is expected to give them to Governor L. L. Emmerson today after he had made a scrutiny of them for the purpose of determining their legality.

Signing of the bills by Emmerson, it was stated, is expected tomorrow with the exception of measures relating to increasing Chicago's bonding limit. These bills, which do not carry a referendum clause, are expected to become law without Emmerson's signature as it is his policy not to sign bonding bills that fail to provide for a referendum.

This means that relief through increasing Chicago's bonding power so that it may float an issue of $40,000,000 will not be available until the required ten days have passed from the time the bills were passed. Under this scheme Chicago would not receive its full benefit of its complete relief program until August 5th.

LITTLE GUSTAVA—
(In response to Several Requests)
LITTLE Gustava sits in the sun, Safe in the porch, and the little drops run
From the icicles under the eaves so fast,
For the bright spring sun shines warm at last,
And glad is little Gustava.

She wears a quaint little scarlet cap,
And a little green bowl she holds in her lap.
Filled with bread and milk to the brim,
And a wreath of marigolds round
the rim:
"Ha! ha!" laughs little Gustava.

Up comes her little gray coaxing cat
With her little pink nose, and she mews, "What?"
Gustava feeds her—she begs for more.
And a little brown hen walks in at the door:
"Good day!" cries little Gustava.

She scatters crumbs for the little brown hen.
There comes a rush and a flutter,
and then
Down fly her little white doves so sweet,
With their snowy wings and crimson feet:
"Welcome!" cries little Gustava.

So dainty and eager they pick up the crumbs.
But who is this through the doorway comes?
Little Scotch terrier, little dog Rags.
Looks in her face, and his funny tail
wags:
"Ha! ha!" laughs little Gustava.

"You want some breakfast too?" and down
She sets her bowl on the brick floor
brown:
And little dog Rags drinks up her milk.
While she strokes his shaggy locks like silk:
"Dear Rags!" says little Gustava.

Waiting without stood sparrow and crow,
Cooling their feet in the melting snow:
"Won't you come in, good folks?"
she cried.
But they were too bashful, and stood outside
Though "Pray come in!" cried Gustava.

So the last she threw them, and knelt on the mat.
With doves and biddy and dog and cat.
And her mother came to the open house-door:
"Dear little daughter, I bring you some more.
My merry little Gustava!"

Kitty and terrier, biddy and doves,
All things harmless Gustava loves.
The shy, kind creatures 'tis joy to feed.
And oh, her breakfast is sweet indeed
To happy little Gustava.

Girl Traveler Says World Is Too Safe

BY PAUL W. WHITE
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK—(UP)—The world has been made too safe for travelers, according to Constance Bridges, youthful and attractive nomad, who in the past 10 years has poked into the corners of such out-of-way spots as Ladak, Bali, Cambodia and Burma.

Miss Bridges, resting between journeys told the United Press that she secretly envied other explorers whose lives appeared (in their books) to be a maelstrom of dangerous adventure.

She recalled, for instance, a trip across the Zoji-la Pass after a cholera plague had driven her and her party from the Vale of Kashmir. The only hardship encountered over that supposedly perilous pass, she said, was the lack of ice.

Miss Bridges, Radcliffe graduate, prominent in Lake Forest, Ill., society, and at one time a member of Professor Baker's famed 47-workshop at last has succumbed to the literary urge that in time overtakes all who stray from the confines of civilization, a tony way of saying she has written a book.

As a matter of fact she had no intention of so doing until she was asked while relating her experiences one evening why she had never tried authorship.

She sought out a publisher, signed for a book before she had submitted a page of manuscript, and completed it in six weeks. The volume, "Thin Air", is the fact story of a Himalayan journey thinly disguised as fiction.

"The worst fright I ever had,"

Miss Bridges said, "came in connection with the krait, the so-called 'minute snake' which I had always been told was trained from birth to sink its deadly fangs into the human skin."

"Accordingly when I was visiting British friends one time in Burma I was frozen with fear when a krait dropped from the rafters of their home and landed on my host's shoulder. Then, for some reason, the snake glided to the floor and wriggled silently away. There simple wasn't any harm in him—at that moment anyway."

"Then I looked forward to a royal tiger hunt as the guest of the Maharajah of Gwalior. Here, I thought there was certain to be rich excitement. This is how sporting the affair turned out to be:

"The wretched beasts were driven by beaters through a runway and potted at from a tower by the maharajah and his guests. It was bad form for the latter to hit the tiger. That was the maharajah's privilege. You can imagine now unrilling I found it."

"No, there just doesn't seem to be much excitement left in the world's hideaways. The only genuine suspense (nowadays) is in trying to get to the theater on time in a taxi-cab. That's not only dangerous but well nigh impossible."

YOUR CHILDREN

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

akw.m'z o-l-p57eN theGs(mo)

"Browns have the whooping cough, or the measles, but I'm not going to try to keep Billy away because he has to have those children's diseases sometime and it may as well be now. The sooner the better." Have you ever heard mothers say that?

Now Billy doesn't need to have those diseases, and such a statement from any mother shows a certain ignorance of facts. It shows that she doesn't know that every illness Billy has, seemingly serious or otherwise, takes away just a little bit more of his resistance, makes his organs less efficient, corrodes his constitution to such an extent that the sum total of all his illness by the time he reaches manhood will spell his health capital and his life expectancy.

He may seem to recover completely from his long spells of high temperature and, various complications, but anyone who argues that he is better for having had them, or that they are inevitable or inescapaable is merely doing a bit of guess-work without any foundation whatsoever. The illnesses of childhood too often leave their mark.

I have heard people say that after typhoid fever, for instance, which is now, as we know, fast disappearing, a certain person was fatter and better than ever. Yes, apparently, only to have, ten or twenty years later, a gall-bladder infection that comes without any apparent cause but which is really a direct aftermath of the intestinal infection of the old disease. However, that is not classed as a childhood disease. To go back to them—whooping cough, measles, mumps and all the others, even with the best of care they are likely to leave an invisible trail behind them.

Parents should see that their children are kept from not only other families who are infected with these things, but any other children in the immediate household who may be infected. A sick child should be kept in a room absolutely apart from the others, and the other children kept away from it as far as possible—out of the house entirely if that can be managed.

Parents owe a duty not only to their own children, but to the community. Other children should be protected.

If a child has whooping cough or any other contagious disease and is well enough to be out-of-doors, he should not be allowed to roam over the streets or in other people's yards. They say six weeks is the duration of contagion but that has to be provided. I should give the child with whooping cough a wide berth for a longer period than that if my own children were menaced. The child with whooping cough should not be taken to movies, ever. Even one with a severe cold should not be allowed to mingle with other children. It may be only a cold for him, but the germ caught from him, incubating in a less healthy child may develop into an infection that is really serious.

For instance, sore throat may be the beginning of measles, toxicitis, diphtheria, or scarlet fever. It may be so mild in one child that he is not even put to bed, and the unsuspecting parent will not guess that the innocent-seeming redness and slight indisposition that lasts for a day or two, is really a case of streptococcus or other infection that may spread a disease to another child.

If children are sick—keep them by themselves until they are well. Above all, never deliberately expose a child to any disease, even a mild one. And if your own children are ill, the kindest thing you can do if the neighbors' children come over, is to send them home.

ERRORGRAMS

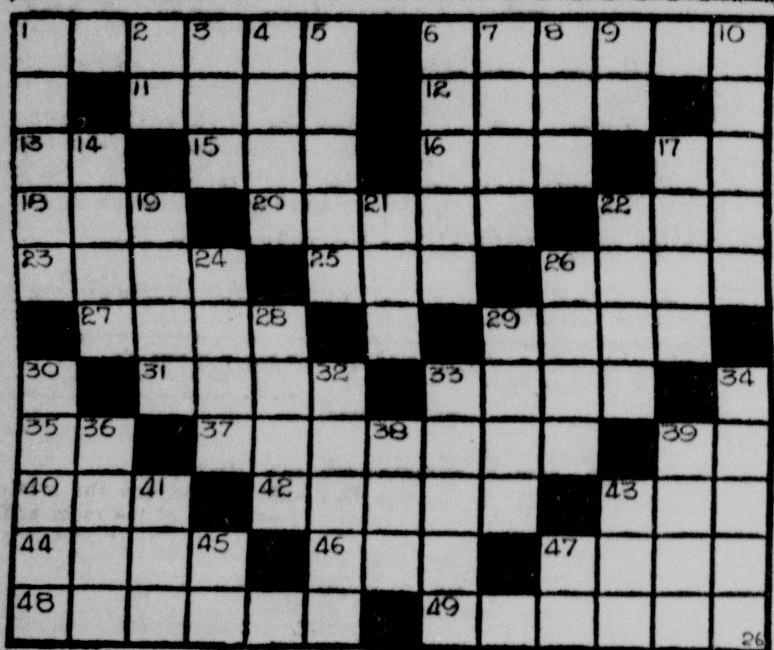

(Copyright, 1930, NEA Service, Inc.)

There are at least four mistakes in the above picture. They may pertain to grammar, history, etiquette, drawing or whatnot. See if you can find them. Then look at the scrambled word below—and unscramble it, by switching the letters around. Grade yourself 20 for each of the mistakes you find, and 20 for the word if you unscramble it. Tomorrow we'll explain the mistake and tell you the word. Then you can see how near a hundred you bat.

WEDNESDAY'S CORRECTIONS

(1) The entrance to the coal mine is a tunnel, or adit, instead of a shaft. (2) Positively, in the sign over the entrance, is spelled incorrectly. (3) The coal car wheels are too short to fit the tracks, the right side wheels being on the ground. (4) Bituminous coal is soft, instead of hard. (5) The scrambled word is CRADLE.

Brother of Japanese Ruler in Paris

It was "a cordial gesture by Japan toward France" that Prince Takamatsu, brother of the Japanese emperor, was making when this picture was taken of his visit to the famous Arc de Triomphe in Paris. The Prince is shown, at the left with General Warrier, right, representing the French government, just after placing a wreath on the grave of France's Unknown Soldier.

BETTER THE JAIL.
Chicago—Albert Hoffman was convicted for having been a member of an auto theft ring, but he was put on a five-year probation and not sent to jail. But here's the catch. His probation specifies that he can't operate or own an auto, ride in one, ride in an airplane, use liquor, or visit gambling establishments.
That's almost as bad as the jail sentence.

GIRL JOCKEYS
London—English race tracks may see women jockeys astride horses in the very near future. Favorable reaction of the Jockey Club has been noticed recently and applications for licenses by women are expected shortly. The women will ride under the same rules as male jockeys.

MORE MARRIAGE TIPS
Camden, N. J.—Here's some happy marriage tips given by V. J. Chacellor Leaning who has been on the divorce bench for 20 years. Don't elope or enter into companionate marriage pacts. When you marry paddle your own canoe; don't let in-laws interfere. Don't get the impression that you're smarter than your mate. Each party must labor to make the other happy.

COSTLY CRAP GAMES
Pittsburgh—Crap games were costly to George A. Coleman, 23-year-old bank clerk. For two years he has been stealing money to finance his games and those of Max Green, who admits he received $29,000 from Coleman to back the galloping cube.
Coleman got the money through cashing worthless checks tendered by Green.

It is said that it required 2000 men three years to carry a single stone from Elephantine to Sias for use in one of Egypt's pyramids.
